

Using Personas

When creating our personas based on the data we collected, we learned that children, as well as primary users, would have basic reading skills and a strong preference for visual elements and bold colors. Based on this, we implemented a UI design with larger buttons, illustrative icons of dice and shapes, and eliminated long texts of more than 7 words, replacing them with visual instructions.